Denton Police Back to School Day

The Denton Police Department held its annual “Back to School Day” on Saturday, August 11. Attendance was overwhelming. Even though it was a cool, rainy day, parents and kids were out in force. Students received backpacks, school supplies, eye exams, haircuts, and even inoculations for the kids that needed them to be ready for school.

When all was said and done, the police officers served hot dogs and hamburgers, with all the trimmings. You can see the parents and students lined up for the goodies.

At the end of the day, names were drawn for door prizes, particularly the NEW BICYCLES!!!!

6th Annual Denton Police Faith Based Crime Prevention Conference

On Saturday, August 18, the Faith Based Crime Prevention Conference was held at Denton Bible Church. It was very well attended. Over two hundred signed up in advance, but many more actually attended. Breakfast was provided by Cartwright’s Restaurant.

This Conference is held to inform churches and interested individuals about solving safety issues at their churches, schools, places of business. There were speakers who explained the methods of how their churches are being protected. There were question and answer sessions.

There was the special guest, Kris Paronto, who is a survivor of the Benghazi attacks. His session was of particular interest to the attendees, because he spoke from experience, as did others. We all know, unfortunately, how vulnerable churches and schools can be if not prepared. This Conference shed some light on what must be done to keep ourselves and others safe in public places. Thanks to the Denton Police Department for offering this information to our communities.

Arts & Autos on the Square

On a very rainy Saturday, September 8, Arts and Autos was held on the Denton Square. This is an annual event, and is always fun and unusual. All makes and models, from the oldest auto to the most unusual, from the fanciest motorcycle to the oldest, were found on the Square that day, judged in several categories. Lots of people were inspecting and admiring, while owners were happy to talk.

There is always live music, lots of fun food, and other activities in conjunction with the auto show. For instance, at the Chalkfest, contestants use chalk on the sidewalk to display their art creations.

Here are just two of the many beautiful and bizarre entries by talented artists who can use this medium (chalk and sidewalk). Thanks to the Denton Main Street Association for sponsoring this event!
